PEACE ON MAUI. Mr. Baldwin Says the Factions No. Longer War.

Mr. Baldwin is down from Maui on a brief business trip, and he was seen yesterday by an ADVER-TISER man in search of information on Maui politics. Mr. Baldwin says the situation on that island is very far from being in a "terrible tangle." Some of the Clubs had originally organized as Union, and others as American Union Clubs. but in all the districts except Wailuku, the Union Party has carried the day, so that the Union Party has practically uncontrolled possession of Mani.

In Wailuku a small number of persons still retain a separate organization as a Club of the American Union Party, but it is very likely that the two Clubs will soon unite.

Each Club nominates delegates to attend a nominating Convention. A Convention of about thirteen delegates was to be held at Wailuku last night, to name the four Maui candidates for the Constitutional Convention.

Mr. Baldwin explains the position held by bimself and others very clearly. He says that the planters, while in favor of importing Asiatics for agricultural purone hand until he has got hold with the other." "I have steadily favored restricting the immigration," acided Mr. Baldwin, "and have always met the mechanics more than halfway on this subject."

MARCH TERM 1894.

BEFORE JUDD, C. J., BICKERTON AND FREAR, JJ.

T. B. MURRAY V. J. F. COLBURN

Upon appeal from a District to a Circuit Court, the bond for costs to accrue should be to the Clerk of the Court and not to the appellee.

OPINION OF THE COURT BY FREAR, J.

This case comes up on exceptions to a ruling of the Circuit Court dismissing defendant's appeal from the District Court of Honolulu on the ground that the appeal bond was made payable to the plaintiff instead of to the Clerk of the Court. The statute (Sec. 68, Ch. LVII, Laws 1892) calls for a "sufficient bond" for "costs further to accure" without de signating to whom it should be made payable. It seems to us that the obligee of a bond for costs should be the person to whom the costs are payable, namely the Clerk of the Court. Such has long been the practice here under the former Rules of the Supreme and Circuit Courts, and although there is not at present any Rule designating who the obligee should be in bonds given on ap peal to the Circuit Court, as there is in cases appealed to the Supreme Court, yet on general principles, in the absence of statute or rule to the contrary, a bond should be made payable to the party who is to be secured. This seems to have been the view taken in Nakuaimano v. Achoi, 5 Haw. 591, where the Court said that the bond for costs to accure filed on exceptions to an order deny ing or granting a motion for a new trial should be made payable to the Clerk of the Court, and not to the plaintiff. But in Joliva v. Kaulukou, 7 Haw. 731, the majority of the Court, with out referring to Naknaimano v. Achoi, expressed an opinion that such bond should be to the appellee. This view, however, was based on the assumption that such bond should be conditioned against disposition of defendant's property as well as for payment of costs, in which case it ought to have been to the plaintiff since he was the party chiefly interested, and only one bond was required by the Rule. In Kaheana v. Nalimu, 8 Haw. 227, the Court, refer ring to Joliva v. Kaulukou, said that the bond filed with a motion for a new trial, which if filed by a defendant against whom a verdict had been rendered, was required to be conditioned against disposition of property as well as for payment of costs, should be "to the appellee and not to the Clerk, as the bond for costs may be." In this case and also in Kaniku v. Monsarrat, 8 Haw. 229, in which also reference was made to Joliva v. Kaulukou, the Court were of the opinion that the bond might properly be made to the appellee al though, under the peculiar circum-

The remarks of the Court upon this subject in most of these cases IN THE CIRCUIT COURT OF were of the nature of chiter dicta, the chere a bond to secure costs alone is quired by statute or rule of Court should be made to the Clerk, but there it is required for security gainst disposition of property as ell as for payment of costs, it mould be to the appellee, even could be to the appellee, and the could be to the appellee form all further responsibility as such administrator. drift of which, however, is that where a bond to secure costs alone is required by statute or rule of Court where it is required for security against disposition of property as well as for payment of costs, it should be to the appellee, even though particular circumstances may make the insertion of the first of these conditions unnecessary, as where the judgment is for the possession of land only without damages. This rule secures uniformity and certainty in practice and should be ad hered to. The bond in this case being held insufficient, the irregular ity could not be remedied by allowng a proper bond to be substituted. The filing of a proper bond within the proper time is a statutory requirement, which cannot be set aside in the discretion of the Court.
